

John snaps up the Mensa Photographer of the Year title

Blue skies, golden corn, a picture of a perfect Summer's day... and the little boy with a long path to travel adds just that little air of mystery. This picture, entitled Boy in a Cornfield, has won the British section of Mensa's international photography competition.

Step forward then John Brookes to claim the title of British Mensa's Photographer of the Year. The theme for this year's contest was "Our Country – Our Children" and the judges thought John had captured something "quintessentially British" in his picture.

The two runners-up were Gordon Gutch for his picture Flying In London and Michael Robinson for So Young, So Troubled.

These three will now go forward to represent Britain in the final section of the competition when an international judging panel will consider entries from all over the Mensa world.

Right: The winning entry, Boy in A Cornfield by John Brookes.

Below: Runner-up, Flying in London by Gordon Gutch.

Below right: Runner-up So Young, So Troubled by Michael Robinson

